100 Bordeaux Bonus

Chateau Palmer's vines are planted on gravelly rises several meters thick in the communes of Margaux and Cantenac. This outstanding terroir, ideal for producing very great wine, overlooks the Gironde. There is a saying in the Médoc that the greatest terroirs are "within sight of the river."

In fact, the French word terroir is used because no single English word conveys the subtle combination of soil, microclimate, and grape varieties. This is all brought together by winegrowers, who increase their in-depth knowledge vintage after vintage. The successful association of fine terroirs and gifted winegrowers is what makes great growths such as Palmer so special.

The 1970 Palmer, considered an excellent year in Bordeaux, "is one of the great wines of the vintage... an emerging, fabulously complex, exotic nose of licorice, over-ripe plums and blackcurrants, soy, cedar, and minerals," according to Robert Parker, Jr.

Now you can experience Chateau Palmer's elegant flavors for yourself, with these six bottles to take home this evening.

102 Mary Chomenko Hinckley Print

In this original art piece, "Willamette Valley Opulence" Colored Pencil Pigment Print created exclusively for the Classic Wines Auction, Hinckley takes yet another evolutionary step in her examination of the playful but reverential relationship between man and nature.

This artwork is a vibrant image of Oregon's Willamette Valley viticultural bounty. Pinot Noir, Riesling and Pinot Gris grapes float on a bed of brilliant fall leaves. The photo is enhanced with hand-drawings Hinckley prints are known for. The act of drawing on the photograph changes the focus of the print; the dialogue is about tension in the relationship between the drawing and the photograph...much like how a winemaker elicits poetry out of wine from a sensuous but elusive muse that beckons.

Mary Chomenko Hinckley has been creating multi-disciplinary works of artistic meaning and scale since the 1970's. Her prints, paintings and sculptures have been featured in solo and group exhibitions from Boston to San Francisco and most recently, Portland, Oregon. She has received numerous prestigious public commissions, including her life-sized sculpture for the Ronald Reagan State Office Building in Los Angeles. She is prominently featured in numerous private and public collections including those of Amerada Hess in New York and Fannie Mae, IBM, Intercontinental and Hyatt hotels in California. Her work can currently be found at Portland's Augen Gallery.

This piece is framed with "Acid-Free" conservation materials and UV Protective Glass by Framing Resource.

105 Domaine du Vieux Télégraphe

This Salmanazar (equivalent to 12 bottles of wine) of 2005 Vieux Télégraphe can be yours!

Robert M. Parker, Jr. said of this wine: "The 2005 Vieux Télégraphe Chateauneuf-du-Pape, is this estate's strongest vintage since 1998. Dense ruby/purple-colored with an exquisite perfume of black raspberries, Kirsch, ground pepper, and incense, this full-bodied, powerful, concentrated wine reveals fabulous purity as well as a finish that lasts over 45 seconds. Purchasers of this beauty will need patience. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2025."

Domaine du Vieux Télégraphe derives its name from an old telegraph station, one which was once sited on the hill where this Chateauneuf domaine now stands. The Vieux Télégraphe vineyards are unusual because they lie in a single block, on the La Crau plateau, today covering an area of 70 hectares.

This "Vieux" is beautiful, for the bottle itself, and the wine inside.

113 Martinelli Jackass Vertical

The Martinelli family has been growing grapes in the Russian River Valley since 1887. At the ages of 19 and 16, Giuseppe Martinelli and Luisa Vellutini eloped from their small village in Italy, making their way to California looking for land to farm and to start a winery. Giuseppe and Luisa planted a small area of Zinfandel and Muscat Alexandria vines, which later became known as the Jackass Hill vineyard.

Fast forward to 1993, when a chance encounter with Helen Turley turned into an association that lasts to this day. The winery's new vineyards are all planted with the professional consultation and specifications of John Wetlaufer and Helen Turley.

Available via their mailing list only, Martinelli has made an incredible splash over the last two decades with their cult-like, small production Zinfandels. Anyone who is a big wine, California or Zin aficionado will definitely have to make a run at these "not-for-the-timid" offerings.

124 Twenty Year Reunion

"I find friendship to be like wine, raw when new, ripened with age."
